Genesis of Islamic Republic of Pakistan

Chapter # 1

Long Questions

Q1. Give an account of the Muslim struggle from 1857 to the establishment of the Muslim League in 1906.

Ans: Account of the Muslim struggle (1857-1906)

The following landmark events constitute the Muslim struggle for independence from 1857 to the establishment of the Muslim League in 1906.

- British Ascendancy
- The Aligarh Movement
- Extremist Hindu Movements
- The Partition of Bengal
- The Shimla Deputation
- Establishment of the Muslim League

British Ascendancy

In the year 1857, The British ascendancy over Indian ended the eight hundred-year Muslim rule. In 1858, India was given under the direct control of the British Crown. The failure of the 1857 War of Independence had disastrous consequences for the Muslims as the British placed all the responsibility for this event on them. Determined to stop such a recurrence in future, the British followed deliberately a repressive policy against the Muslims. Properties and estates of those even remotely associated with the freedom fighters were confiscated and conscious efforts were made to close all avenues of honest living for them.

The Aligarh Movement

The end of the Mughal Empire and the consequent plight of the Muslims impelled Sir Sayed Ahmad Khan to plant a sampling of Aligarh Movement in India. Sir Sayed had the fore-sightedness to realize the benefits of modern education and the wholesome effect that it would eventually have on the lot of the Sub-continent's Muslims. Muslims could not play their due part in society without utilizing to the fullest the opportunities offered by the new western culture and education. Sir Sayed formed many educational institutions under the flag of the Aligarh Movement.

The Extremist Hindu Movements

The extremism Hindus made life a misery for the Muslims of India. The Muslims were maltreated and deprived of the rights. Muslims were robbed of their properties and homes. There was no shelter for them. The slaughter of cow was said to be a heinous crime against the law. The slaughter of cow was said to be a heinous crime against the law. The Muslims were not free to perform their religious rites. The Anti-Muslim movement "Arya Smaj" flourished in the last two decades of the nineteenth century. The movement aimed at reconverting the Muslims to Hinduism. Bankim Chandra wrote a novel Anand Matth. This novel provoked Muslims religious sentiments. Anti-Muslims epic Bande Matrum was a part of this novel.

The partition of Bengal

Lord Curzon made Bengal an independent province in 1905. This step was taken mainly due to administrative reasons. Bengal was a vast province and could not be handled properly unless divided into two parts- East Bengal and West Bengal. This partition of Bengal changed the fate of the Bengali Muslims. They began to prosper as a nation. The Hindus could not digest the death of their monopoly. They could not see the Muslim nation taking feet. They behaved very aggressively and revolted against the partition of Bengal. This attitude of the Hindus led the Muslims of India to form All India Muslim League.

The Simla Deputation and the Demand for separate Homeland

A deputation of Muslim leaders called on Lord Minto, the viceroy, On October 1, 1906, at Simla, Sir Agha Khan, the head of the deputation, presented a memorandum in which he requested for the basic political, economic, cultural and other rights for the Muslims. He also introduced a system of separate electorate for the Muslims. The Viceroy's reaction was favourable

Establishment of the Muslim League

In December 1906, the yearly meeting of Muslim Educational Conference was held at the house of Nawab Samiullah Khan of Dhaka. All the towering politicians of Indian participated in that meeting. In this meeting, Nawab Saimullah Khan presented a resolution and all the member of meeting accepted it. As a result of this resolution, the Muslim League came into existence on December 30, 1906, in Dhaka. It was decided that the main office of the Muslim League would be set up in Aligarh. Sir Agha Khan was elected the first president of Muslim League. The objectives of the Muslim League were the following:

- To create an understanding between the government and the Indian Muslims and to promote the feelings of loyalty among them.
- To co-ordinate with the other nations and political parties for the general welfare of the people.
- To protect the rights of the Muslim nation and to interact with the Government and other agencies for this purpose.

Q2. Give a background of the Aligarh Movement and a summary of its objectives.

Ans: Background

In the year 1857, the British ascendancy over India ended the right hundred years of Muslim rule. In 1858, India was given under the direct control of the British Crown. The failure of the 1857 War, Independence had disastrous consequences for the Muslims as the British placed all the responsibility for this event. Determined to stop such a recurrence in future, the British followed desperately a repressive policy against the Muslims. Properties are estates of those even remotely associated with the freedom fighter were confiscated and conscious efforts were made to close.

The Aligarh Movement

The end of the Mughal Empire and the consequent plight of the Muslim impelled Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan to plant a sapling Aligarh Movement in India. Sir Sayyed Ahmad had the fore-sightedness to realize the benefits of modern education and the wholesome effect and that it would eventually have on the lot of the Sub-continent's Muslims. Muslim could not play their due part in society without utilizing the fulfilled the opportunities offered by the new western culture and education. Sir Sayyed formed many educational institutions under the flag of the Aligarh Movement.

The reactions of the Muslims of India towards Aligarh Movement

Sir Sayyid's conciliatory efforts, taken collectively, are known as Aligarh Movement. A large section of the Indian Muslims appreciated Sir Sayyid's efforts. They stood by his side. They contributed both monetarily and morally to prosper Aligarh Movement. They supported Sir Sayyid by providing him funds for the projects of the Aligarh Movement.

Objectives of the Aligarh Movement

The following were the objectives of the Aligarh Movement:

- Conciliation among the Indian Muslims and the British.
- Education of the Indian Muslims
- Loyal Mohammedans.
- The friendship between Muslims and other Indian nations

Conciliation among the Indian Muslims and the British

The British Government had snatched the crown from the Muslims. So, they had a natural enmity against the Muslims. Secondly, they considered Muslims to be the lone wagers of the Mutiny. The Hindus were cunning enough to hurry good terms with the newly formed British government. Muslims on the other hand detested the invaders who deprived them of their rule over India. Sir Sayyid felt that these strained relationships between the Indian Muslims and the British government would harm none but the Muslims. So, for the all multi-dimensional of the Indian Muslims, Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan formed the Aligarh Movement. To bring about an atmosphere of compromise and reconciliation was the primary objective of the Aligarh movement. The following works of Sir Sayyid are the proponents of this very object

- Risala Asbada Baghawat-e-Hind: In this Sir Sayyid describes the reasons which led the Muslims to wage a rebellion against the British Government.
- Loyal Mohammedans of India: In this book, Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan highlighted the services of the Muslims who served British interests in the days of Mutiny.
- Tabin-ul-Kalam: This was the Urdu tafseer of the Bible.

Education of the Indian Muslims

The Muslims of India were against the British government system and Western education. So, they preferred to educate their children in the Muslim Dini Madrassa and not according to the demands of the era. On the other hand, the Hindus got their children educated according to the Western patterns. As a result, the Muslims were denied Civil services in the British Government. Thus, pained Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan. He wanted the Indian Muslims should get both religious as well as modern educations. To educate the Muslims according to the demands of the modern age was the objective of the Aligarh movement.

Loyal Mohammedans

Creating loyalty in the hearts of the Muslim towards the British Crown was the basic objective of the Aligarh Movement. The Muslims of India detested the British because they deprived them of the rule over India. Sir Sayyid wanted the Indian Muslims to accept the new situation and to be loyal to the British Government.

The friendship between Muslims and other Indian Nations

One of the fundamental objectives of the Aligarh movement was to create friendship between the Indian Muslims and other nations residing in India.

Conclusion

Sir Sayyid's Aligarh Movement was a complete institution in itself. Under the flag of this movement, Sir Sayyid contributed a lot toward the development of the Muslims of India. He established many educational institutions in the far and wide of India and helped the Indian Muslims to be reputed as an educated nation of the region.

Q3. Describe and evaluate Sir Sayyed's services for the Muslims of India.

Ans: Sir Syed Ahmed Khan

Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was born in 1817 in Delhi. After early education he joined East India Company in 1835 as a sub clerk in the Court of law. In 1846 he promoted to Chief Judge. During the war of independence (1857) he was in Bajnora where he saved British women and children putting himself into the risk. Owing to this service Sir Syed was asked to work as a Governor but he refused because he wanted to serve the Muslims. It would hardly be an exaggeration to call Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan as the finest and most representative Muslim in the annals of the Sub-continent.

Back ground:

After the war of independence, the Muslims were the target of the revengeful activities of the British Govt. And the Hindus got an opportunity to make the British believe that the Muslims were a threat to the British rule. As a result, national recognition of the Muslims was in severe danger. At that crucial time Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was the first leader to come forward and tried to rescue the national pride of the Muslims, He started Aligarh Movement.

Services of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan

Services of Sir Syed Ahmad Khan can be divided into three categories:

- Educational Services
- Social Services
- Political Services

Educational Services of Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan

Following are the educational services of Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan

1. Aligarh Movement

The end of the Mughal Empire and the consequent plight of the Muslim impelled Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan to plant a sapling Aligarh Movement in India. Sir Sayyed had the fore-sightedness to realize the benefits of modern education and the wholesome effect that it would eventually have on the lot of the Sub-continent's Muslims. Muslims could not play their due part in society without utilizing to the fullest the opportunities offered by the new Western culture education. Sir Sayyed formed many educational institutions under the flag of the Aligarh Movement.

Objectives of the Aligarh Movement

The following were the objectives of the Aligarh Movement:

- Conciliation among the Indian Muslims and the British.
- Education of the Indian Muslims
- Loyal Mohammedans.
- The friendship between Muslims and other Indian nations.

2. Murad Abad School

Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan established the educational institution, Murad Abad, in 1858.

3. M.A.O School Aligarh

The M.A.O. School, Aligarh was established in 1875. Later on, the institute was upgraded to be a college. In 1920, this institution became Muslim University, Aligarh. In this Institution, Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan hired the services of Sir Arnold, Orison.

4. Scientific Society

Sir Sayyid established an educational institution in Ghazi Pur in 1863. The name of this institution was Scientific Society. The headquarters of this society were shifted to Aligarh in 1876. The purposes of the establishment of this society were:

- To acquire books in other languages.
- To translate them in Urdu.
- To create a balance between modern and Western knowledge.

5. Study of the British Education System:

Sir Sayyid visited England in the year 1869. He made a good use of this opportunity by visiting the most prestigious of the British educational institutions. He made a deep study of the curriculum of these institutions, and on his return to India, established a committee named Khawastgaran-e-Traqi-e-Taleem-e-Musalmanaan-e-Hind. Sole purpose of this committee was to establish educational institutions in India, conforming to the British standards.

6. Establishment of the MAO Schools:

As the first step the committee Khawastgaran-e-Traqi-e-Taleem-e-Musalmanaan-e-Hind established a school at Aligarh in the year 1875 it was named, Muhammadan Anglo Oriental School.

7. Establishment of the MAO College:

The MAO School was upgraded to the level of college in the year 1877. Viceroy Lord Lyton laid the foundation stone of the College and donated 050m of Rupees ten thousand from his own purse.

8. Establishment of the Muhammadan Educational Conference:

To motivate the Muslims for acquiring modern knowledge Sir Sayyid established Muhammadan Educational Conference in the year 1886. Annual meetings of the Conference were held at different important places throughout India. The Muslim League was founded in 1906, in an annual meeting of the Conference held at Dacca.

Aligarh Institute Gazette

Scientific Society of Ghazi Pur published a gazette. This was called "Aligarh Institute Gazette". This gazette was published in both Persian and English languages so that the Muslims and the Britishers could come closer to each other.

Social Services of Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan

Following are the social services of Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan

1. Causes of Indian Mutiny

Causes of Indian Mutiny: In 1859 Sir Sayyid wrote a book titled "Asbab-e-Baghawat-e-Hind", especially meant for reading by the members of the British Parliament. In this book he tried to prove that the uprising of 1857 was, by no means, a war of independence, this was just an upheaval spurred by a few trouble mongers. He said that certain unwise policies of the British Government also paved way for the unrest that resulted in this unfortunate incident. The Muslims, generally, liked to label the 1857 events as "War of Independence", but Sir Sayyid always called it a mutiny.

2. Loyal Muhammadans of India

In the year 1860 Sir Sayyid launched a magazine under the title of "Loyal Mohammedans of India". In this magazine he started highlighting the services of those Muslim nobles who had put their lives in danger to save the lives of the British officials and citizens.

3. Some other Reconciliatory Efforts

In order to bring the British rulers and the Muslims closer to each other, Sir Sayyid wrote a number of books and tracts, most notable among these were:

Khutabat-e-Ahmadia:

In 1869 Sir Syad , Khan wrote a book Khutabat-e-Ahma do defend the Holy Prophet (PBUH) in reply to 'A More's book.

Tabbain-ul-Kalam:

He wrote a commentary on Bible called Tabbian-ul-Kalam

Risala Tehzib-ul-Ikhlaq:

In 1870 Sir Syed Ahmed Khan published a pamphlet, Risala Tehzib-ul-Ikhlaq in which he described social problem of the Muslims and he tried to eliminate the prejudice among the Muslims towards the Non-Muslims.

Asar-us-Sanadeed:

For the social welfare of the Muslims, he wrote Asar-us-Sanadeed.

Commentary on Bible

In this commentary he tried to identify the commonalities and the shared points between Islam and the Christianity just to show that both have certain things in common, both are different religious systems but they have certain common things.

Tehqiq-E-Lafz-I-Nasara

In this publication he said that the use of this word nasara does not mean that Muslims are showing some contempt toward Christians or they view them in negative term but it is a positive word and they are expressing positive sentiment. The interpretation given by the Europeans, by the British is not what is reality. So, this was another effort to remove the misunderstandings that were developing between the Christians and the Muslims of that time.

Ahkam-e-Tuam-e-Ahle [Kitab

Another publication was Ahkam-e-Tuam-e-Ahle [Kitab that means what are the principles what are the injunctions for eating with the people who follow any book of God in this case BIBLE. and Sir Syed argued that Muslims and Christians can eat together because both are AHLUL KITAAB therefore the Muslims and the Christians can interact more smoothly and they could work together harmoniously

4. Translation Works:

Following books were translated:

Ain-akbari, Tuzok-e-Jahangri, & Tarikh-e-Sarkashi Bajnor

In addition to all this Sir Syed also wrote Tafseer-ul-Quran, Loyal Muhammadan of India & Asbab-e-Baghawat Hind.

Political Services of Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan

Following are the political services of Sir Sayyid Ahmad Khan

1. As a Member of Imperial Legislative Council

Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan was the member of Imperial Legislative Council. As a member of Imperial Legislative Council, Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan did the following services for the Muslims of India.

- He took the problems of the Indian Muslims very effectively to the Indian Government.
- He demanded separate electorate for the Muslims of India.
- He demanded the number of Muslim seats in Viceroy's council should be fixed.
- He demanded that only Muslim voters should elect Muslim members.

2. Urdu Hindi Controversy

In the year 1867, the Hindus of Banaras launched a movement to replace Urdu as an official language with Hindi. Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan strongly opposed this idea and thus he safeguarded Urdu, the sign of Muslim Identity.

3. Two Nation Theory

Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan, the pioneer of Ideology of Pakistan, used the word 'Two Nation' for Hindus and Muslims after being convinced of the Hindus and Congress hatred, hostility and prejudice for the Muslims. Defining the differences between Hindus and Muslims, Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan said:

"I am convinced now that Hindus and Muslims could never become one nation as their religion and way of life was quite distinct from each other"

After the Hindi-Urdu controversy, Sir Sayyed felt that Hindus and Muslims couldn't progress as a single nation.

Conclusion

Other of Sir Sayyed's major works were:

- Journal Asar-us-Sanadeed
- Loyal Muhammadan of India
- Khutbaat-e-Ahmdia
- Bayyan-ul-Kalam

Sir Sayyed Ahmad Khan blended Western Eastern and Islamic education. His theory of education was based on the following statement.

Philosophy will be in our right hand, natural science in the left hand and the Islamic ideology will be on our head.

Q4. Give background and reasons for the establishment of the Muslim League.

Ans: Eestablishment of the Muslim League.

After the end of the Congress Raj, it dawned upon the Muslims that Congress is only considerate about the Hindu interests. It was crystal clear then that if they want to safeguard their rights as a nation, they should go to some other platform.... other than Congress.

Causes of the Establishment of the Muslim League

The following were the causes of establishment of Muslim League

- Establishment of the British System of Government:
- Urdu Hindi Controversy

- Hindu Extremism:
- Establishment of the Indian National Congress:
- Demand for Separate Electorate:
- Partition of Bengal and the Congress Attitude
- Change of Government in Britain:
- Simla Deputation

1. Establishment of the British System of Government:

The system introduced after the establishment of the British Government in the year 1858, was democratic in nature. Since the Hindus outnumbered the Muslims in Indian population they were on a surer ground under the new political system. The British had already crippled the Muslims economically. A system based on majority rule, pure and simple, were established the Muslims were surely going to lose. This state of affairs called for a Muslim political platform to voice Muslim demands effectively.

2. Urdu Hindi Controversy

During the British raj, Urdu was the national language of India. The Hindus wanted to replace Urdu with Hindi. They also wanted to replace the Arabic script of Urdu in Devnagri in which Hindi was written. These activities endangered the life of Urdu. The Muslims were very perturbed against this situation. They formed Urdu sycophancies. The Muslims knew that assault against Urdu is the assault against the Muslim culture. To heighten the intensity and pitch of their revolt, they formed All India Muslim League.

3. Hindu Extremism:

We have already learnt about Urdu-Hindi Controversy spurred by the Hindus in 1867, the Hindus demanded replacement of Urdu by Hindi as official language. During the same period, Hindu extremists started programmes like the "Arya Samaj" with a purpose to reconvert the Muslims into Hindu religion. Hindu writers spread hatred against the Muslims among their followers.

4. Establishment of the Indian National Congress

A retired British Civil Servant A.O. Hume established the Indian National Congress in the year 1885. The Hindus welcomed it enthusiastically and joined it in great numbers.

5. Demand for Separate Electorate

Sir Sayyid believed that the British system of elections, pure and simple, did not suit the Indian conditions, because this will reduce the Muslims to a position of permanent slavery and subservience to the majority community. He proposed the system of separate electorate as an alternative. This system obviously could not be made useful unless the Muslims had a political party of their own.

6. Partition of Bengal and the Congress Attitude

In the year 1905, the British government divided the province of Bengal into two parts. Since the newly created province of East Bengal had a Muslim majority, the Muslims were to benefit from this partition. Hindus launched a strong protest against this decision of the government throughout India. The province of Bengal was the main target of the saboteurs. The Muslims were greatly disappointed when they saw that the Congress, notwithstanding all its claims of neutrality, was supporting the Hindu extremists openly.

7. Change of Government in Britain

Liberal Party returned to power in the 1905 elections held in Britain. The party gave a programme of political reforms meant for India. The Muslim leaders discussed the situation and decided to make a common cause for taking up the demands of the Muslim community with the government.

8. The Simla Deputation

Thirty-five top ranking Muslim leaders taken from all parts of the Sub-Continent called on the then Viceroy Lord Minto at Simla on Oct 1, 1906. Important Muslim demands presented to the Viceroy included; reserved quota of seats for Muslims in all representative bodies and separate electorate; The Viceroy expressed sympathy with the Muslim demands and promised to take them up with the British Government. The Muslim leaders were greatly encouraged by the Viceroy's response.

Foundation of Muslim League

On December 30th, 1906, the Yearly Meeting of Muslim Educational Conference was held at the house of Nawab Samiullah Khan of Dhaka. All the towering politicians of India participated in that meeting. In this meeting, Nawab Samiullah Khan presented a resolution. This resolution was accepted by all the members of the meeting. As a result of this resolution, the Muslim League came into existence on 30th December 1906 in Dhaka.

It was decided that the main office of the Muslim League would be set up in Ali Garh. Sir Agha Khan was elected the first president of the Muslim League.

Objectives of All India Muslim Leagues

The objectives of the Muslim League at the time of its formation were the following:

1. To safeguard and protect the interests of the Indian Muslims; to convey their demands to the British government in a peaceful manner and through constitutional means.
2. To create feelings of respect and goodwill for the government amongst the Muslims and to remove any misunderstanding they might have, regarding governments Policies and actions
3. To create feelings of brotherhood between the Muslims and other Indian communities.

Change of Objectives

In March 1913 changes in the objectives of the All-India Muslim League were made on Quaid-e-Azam's initiative. Policy of unconditional subservience was forsaken in the favour of "self-government suitable for Indian conditions". This proved to be a timing point in the history of the Muslims of India.

Q5. Give an account of the proposals brought forward for the solution of the Indian problems at different times.

Answer

Numerous efforts were brought forward for the solution of the Indian problem. These were made to work out a conciliatory formula, which would satisfy the British, the Hindus and the Muslims at the same time. The following lines cover the chronology of the different proposals was made to resolve the Indian problems:

| Years   | Events                                                               | Detail                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

Q6. Give a background of the Khilafat Movement and a brief account of its major event.

Ans: Khilafat Movement

Among the landmarks of our long and arduous struggle for freedom, the Khilafat Movement (1918-1924) stands out as one of the most significant political events.

Background of the Khilafat Movement

The World War I broke out in 1914, UK, USA, France, Russia and Italy went into the alliance against Germany, Austria and Turkey in those days, Turkey was the centre of religious reverence for the Muslims because the ruler of Turkey was treated as Khalifa of the Muslim Ummah.

During World War I, the sanctity and safety of Turkey were in great danger. This situation was not only miserable for the Turk nation but the whole Muslim world especially the Muslims of the Sub-continent.

The Muslims of India had a hope that one day Turkey will come to free them from the clutches of the British Raj. But during World War I, this ray of hope was struggling with its own life. It looked evident that the Sultan of Turkey would be poisoned and Turkey would lose sovereign status.

The boundaries of Turkey were extended to the whole of North Africa, the Middle East, and Eastern Europe. Hijaz-e-Mokaddas was also in Turkish domain.

In case of defeat in the war, both sacred cities Makkah and Madinah could go to the possession of Christian allied forces. Keeping all the apprehensions in view, the Muslims of India, under the leadership of the Ali Brothers, Maulana Mohammad Ali and Maulana Shaukat Ali, launched the historic Khilafat Movement after the First World War to protect the Ottoman Empire from dismemberment. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi (1869-1947) linked the issue of Swaraj (self-government) with the Khilafat issue to associate the Hindus with the movement. The ensuing Movement was the first countrywide popular movement. Important Events of the Khilafat Movement

The important events of the Khilafat Movement were:

Establishment of Khilafat Committee

To launch an organized mass movement and launch an opinion forming a campaign, an All India Khilafat Committee was formed on November 23, 1919.

Hindu-Muslim Unity and Non-Cooperation

The Khilafat Movement was a platform on which Hindu and Muslims came closer to each other. The Hindus, in the auspices and on the initiative Mohandas Karamchand. Gandhi decided to take stand with the Muslims against British invasion over Turkey. The Hindus decided to launch a Non-cooperating Movement against the government.

Khilafat Delegation

In May 1920, a Khilafat delegation headed by Maulana Muhammad Ali Johar set off to London to explain

Muslims point of view over the issue of Turkey. The British government refused to give an ear to the demands of the delegation.

The Treaty of Sevres

In May 1920, the Allied forces decided on Turkey's fate under the treaty made at the banks of Canal Sevres. The Empire was stripped of its occupations in Europe and Arabia.

Non-Cooperation Movement

The Khilafat committee appealed all India to observe a Non-Cooperation movement against the British invasion over Turkey. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi was elected the leader of the Non-Cooperation Movement. This Movement was aimed at the total boycott of the government. Under the initiation of this Movement the Indian:

- Government servants resigned services.
- The students quit educational institutions
- The award and titleholders returned their titles and awards to the government.
- Foreign goods were banned.

Civil Disobedience

In November 1921, the Khilafat Committee appealed the Indians to break the law and launch civil disobedience. They were asked to refuse to pay the taxes and to disobey the government. About thirty thousand people were arrested on account of civil disobedience.

Mopla Uprising

The Arab traders, called Moplas, lived on the South Indian shores. In 1921, there was a local type of clash between the Hindus and the Muslims. The British Government used this clash as a means to create a rift between Hindus and Muslims. The government used force against the Moplas. This situation gave a setback to the Khilafat Movement.

Chora Chori Incident

Chora Chori was a small town in U.P. In 1922, an infuriated mob of Chora Chori attacked a police station and set it on fire. As a consequence, 21 policemen were burnt alive. This resulted in the government's fierce action against the Muslims. The government decided to treat Muslims with an iron hand. This situation hurt the Khilafat Movement.

Civil Disobedience Called Off

Mohan Chand Karamchand Gandhi said that the basic charter of the Civil disobedience was non-violence. Since the movement had turned to violence. It should be called off. So, he called off the Civil Disobedience Movement. This proved fatal for the life of the Khilafat Movement.

Abolition Khilafat

The final deathblow on the Indian Khilafat Movement came when Ata Turk came into power in Turkey and he abolished Khilafat, the cause for which the Muslims of India had been sacrificing their lives for so many years.

Conclusion

So far as India is concerned the Khilafat Movement has left an indelible mark on the history of the Sub-Continent. It was the first countrywide agitation of the Indian Muslims with a central organization to guide its course. It transformed the psyche of the people, trained them in political agitation and taught them how to press come to their demands. It brought the Hindus and Muslims on one platform for the first and the last time. Although the Movement failed in its objectives, it had a far-reaching impact on the Muslims of South Asia. After a long time, they took united action on a purely Islamic issue, which momentarily forget solidarity among them. It also produced a class of Muslim leaders experienced in organizing and mobilizing the public.

Q7. Examine the impact and outcomes of Tehrik-e-Khilafat in detail.

Ans: Impact and Outcomes of Tehrik-e-Khilafat

The Khilafat Movement had left an indelible mark on the history of the Sub-continent. It was the first countrywide agitation of the Indian Muslims with a central organization to guide its course. It transformed the psyche of the people, trained them in political agitation and taught them how to press their demands. The following were the impact and outcomes of the Khilafat Movement.

Samia Javed

- Beginning of common man's politics in the sub-continent:
- Hindu Muslim Unity
- Strong Muslim Leadership
- Hindu-Muslim Antagonism
- Communal Riots
- A step towards the liberation of India
- A step toward Pakistan Movement
- Moral support to the Turks

Beginning of common man's politics in the sub-continent

It was the first popular movement which touched almost all parts of the sub-continent. It was through Khilafat platform that the leaders of public opinion came very close to the common man. It gave people the consciousness which was to serve as a motivating force behind the Muslim struggle for the achievement of Pakistan in the days to come.

Hindu Muslim Unity

It brought the Hindus and Muslims on one platform for the first and the last time. The Hindu Muslim Unity reached its climax during the Khilafat and the Non-cooperation Movements. The Muslims of South India, under the leadership of the Ali Brothers, Maulana Mohammad Ali and Maulana Shaukat Ali, launched the historic Khilafat Movement after the First World War to protect the Ottoman Empire from dismemberment. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi (1869-1948) linked the issue of Swaraj (self-government) with the Khilafat issue to associate the Hindus with the Movement. The ensuing Movement was the first countrywide popular movement.

Strong Muslim Leadership

Although the Khilafat Movement failed in its objectives, it had a far-reaching impact on the Muslims of South Asia. After a long time, they took united action on a purely Islamic issue, which momentarily forgot solidarity among them. It also produced a class of Muslim leaders experienced in organizing and mobilizing the public.

Hindu Muslim Antagonism

The collapse of the Khilafat Movement was followed by a period of bitter Hindu Muslim antagonism. The Hindus organized two highly anti-Muslim movements, the Shudhi and the Sangathan. The former movement was meant to create solidarity among the Hindus in the event of communal conflict.

Communal Riots

In retaliation, the Muslims sponsored the Tabligh and Tanzim organizations to counter the impact of the Shudhi and the Sangathan. In the 1920s, the frequency of communal riots was unprecedented. Several Hindu Muslim Unity Conferences were held to remove the causes of conflict, but it seemed nothing could mitigate the intensity of communalism.

A Step Towards the Liberation of India

Khilafat Movement was an important step towards the liberation of India. The forceful expression of India's popular sentiments against Imperialism helped the British rulers to understand that it was impossible to keep India under their control forever, they started to make their mind.

A Step Towards Pakistan Movement

The Hindu Muslim antagonism after the collapse of Khilafat movement clarified that Hindu and Muslims cannot be united on a single platform. This consciousness was a step towards the achievement of Pakistan.

Moral Support to the Turks

The efforts of the Indian Muslims for the Turks proved moral support for the fighting Turks. The speeches and statements of the Khilafat leaders were translated in Turkey and were sent to the Turk soldiers to consolidate them and to strengthen their footings over their demands.

Conclusion

Although the Khilafat Movement was a failure on the annals of history, yet it is a great success as regards the recognition of Muslim identity is concerned. Also, this movement was a proponent of the fact that the Muslims of all over the world have been tied in the bond of brotherhood. It was also a proponent of Allama Iqbal's verse.

Q8. What important events paved way for the adoption of the Lahore Resolution?

Also Elaborate salient features of the Lahore Resolutions.

Ans: Background

The Lahore resolution is the most significant landmark in the history of our freedom struggle. In March 1940, the Muslims of India adopted a resolution embodying their national objectives and expressing their firm commitment to make all efforts for the achievement of these objectives.

Important events and factors that led to the adoption of the Resolution were:

- The Two Nation Theory
- Hindu Extremism
- Allama Iqbal's Ideology of a Nation
- Period of Congress Rule
- The popularity of the Muslim League

The Two National Theory:

They Muslims, by virtue of their faith, are a nation separate and distinct from all other nations of the World. Their spiritual and national aspirations could only be realized in a state which was Islamic in nature, where they could live as free citizens and could model their lives in accordance with Islamic injunctions.

Hindu Extremism:

The Muslims had lived with the Hindus as neighbours and compatriots for about one thousand years. On the basis of their experience, they could not expect good neighbourly treatment from the extremist Hindus, who had already made it clear that the Muslims had no place in India, they should either embrace Hinduism or quit India.

Iqbal's Ideology of a Nation:

Delivering his presidential address at the annual session of the Muslim League held at Allahabad in 1930, Poet-philosopher Allama Muhammad Iqbal said that

"... the north-western part of the Indian sub-continent was predominantly Muslim, that Muslims living in these areas form a distinct and separate national entity and that their rights in any future constitution should be determined in this light"

Period of Congress Rule:

Congress ministries were formed in seven out of the eleven Indian provinces, these governments worked till 1939. Had governance and the oppressive rule of the congress ministries created a general discontentment and despair among the Muslims. Demand for a separate Muslim homeland was its immediate outcome.

Popularity of the Muslim League:

The Quaid-e-Azam kept persistently in touch with the Muslims during the oppressive Congress rule, he was successful in impressing upon them that a horrible future lies ahead them if the Congress were entrusted authority to rule the whole of India. As a result of the Quaid-e-Azam's efforts the Muslim League which had faded to attract the Muslim masses in 1936-37 elections, emerged as the sole representative of the Muslim nation.

Muslim League's Session in Lahore

Historic Muslim League session was held in 1940 in Lahore. Addressing a rally of more than a hundred thousand people after the Jum'a prayers on March 22, the Quaid-e-Azam said:

" under the plea of unity of India and one nation, which does not exist, it is sought to pursue here the line of one central government. We know that the history of the last twelve hundred years has failed to achieve unity, and has witnessed India during the ages, always divided into Hindu India and Muslim India Musalamans are a nation according to any definition of nation and they must have their separate homeland. We wish to live in peace and harmony with our neighbours as a free and independent people"

Adoptation of the Lahore Resolution

The twenty –seventh session of All-India Muslim League was held at Lahore under the presidency of Quaid-e-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah. Moulvi Abdul Kasim Fazlul Haq, Chief Minister of Bengal, presented the historic Lahore Resolution, also known as “Pakistan Resolution”. The resolution demanded that the Muslim majority areas as in North-Western and Eastern zones of India should be grouped to constitute independent states in which the constituent units should be autonomous and sovereign.

Salient features of Lahore Resolution

The Lahore resolution embodied minimum demands regarding the political status of the Muslims in South Asia. The Muslims resolved in will only accept a constitutional formula, which satisfies the following Muslim demands”

- Federal Scheme Disapproved
- Establishment of Independent States
- Safeguards for Minorities
- The extent of State Sovereignty

Federal Scheme Disapproved

The federal scheme formulated in the Government of India act 1935 is unsuitable for the Indian conditions. The Indian Muslims will never accept it.

Establishment of Independent States

It was clearly stated that a constitution acceptable for the Muslims of India should be based on the following principles:

“Geographically contiguous units be demarcated into regions..... in which the Muslims are numerically a majority, as in the North-Western and Eastern zones of India, should be grouped to constitute independent states in which the constituent units shall be autonomous and sovereign.

Safeguards of Minorities

In the newly established Muslim and non-Muslim states adequate constitutional safeguards should be provided to minorities, with their consultation, for the protection of their religious, cultural, economic, political and administrative rights and interests.

The extent of State Sovereignty

The resolution authorized the Muslim League Working Committee to draft a constitutional scheme in the light of the principles stipulated in the resolution. This scheme shall ensure that the states created under this scheme have full control over the defence, foreign affairs, communications, customs and all other necessary subjects.

Hindu Reaction after the Approval of the Pakistan Resolution

Hindu Journalists

Immediately after the passing of the resolution, the Hindu press openly rejected it. The Hindu journalists called it “the division of the mother cow”. They rejected Muslim’s demands and ridiculed the resolution. They called it impractical and termed it as the fancy of some sick mind.

Hindu Political leaders

Hindu political leaders especially Gandhiji and Pandit Jawarhar Lal Nehru criticized the resolution a lot. They turned it down in harsh words.

The Name of the Resolution

Muslim League named this resolution as Lahore Resolution. But the Hindu press and Hindu leaders ironically termed it as the Pakistan Resolution. Ironically enough, this name became more popular than the original one. The Muslim leaders adopted the new term. It was later on called Pakistan Resolution in all quarters.

The Reaction of the Muslims

Some sects of the Muslim were reluctant to accept promote the demand for partition. But on the whole, this resolution was very popular in the Muslim circle.

British Press

British press paid no heed to the Pakistan Resolution.

Conclusion

The Hindus were confident that Pakistan would not be created but the determination and struggle of the Muslims retorted their false confidence. Pakistan dawned on the horizon of the globe only seven years after the Pakistan

Resolution.

Q10. Analyse the Lahore Resolution and determine its place and role in the history of our freedom movement.

Ans: The Lahore Resolution

The attitude of the Hindus made it clear that the Hindus and the Muslims were two separate nations. On March 23rd, at the annual session of Muslim League at Lahore, the famous resolution, commonly known as the Pakistan Resolution was passed. Maulvi Fazlul Haq presented it and Quaid-e-Azam said in his address:

“By all means, Muslims are one nation and they need a separate homeland where they could live their spiritual, cultural, economical, social and political lives independently”.

Basic points of Pakistan Resolution

The basic points of the Pakistan Resolution were:

- Independent Muslim State
- Partition – the only acceptable solution
- Rights of the Minorities in Pakistan

Independent Muslim State

It was stated in the resolution that the contiguous units in the different areas should be demarcated as such that the Muslims majority areas of the North East and North West be established as an independent Muslim state.

Partition- the only acceptable solution

It was made clear in the resolution that no other scheme other than the partition of the Sub-continent will be accepted.

Rights of the Muslim Minority

It was stated that after partition, the rights of the Muslim minority will be protected and suitable arrangements will be made for this purpose.

Analysis of the Lahore Resolution

Following are the most notable features of the Lahore Resolution:

1. Word Pakistan

Word Pakistan was not used in the text of the Lahore Resolution.

2. Ambiguity in Demand

The Resolution did not demand one Muslim state in clear terms. The ambiguity, which was caused due to the use of plural 'states' was removed later at Madras session of the Muslim League held in 1941. A resolution adopted at this session clearly stated, that the Muslim League stood for only one sovereign independent Muslim state.

3. Undefined Boundaries

The boundaries of the Muslim state or states were not defined in the Resolution words like units, regions and zones were used instead.

4. Name of Resolution

The Resolution was originally called 'Lahore Resolution' but later it came to be known as 'Pakistan Resolution'. This name was given by the hostile Hindu press and was readily picked up by the Quaid-e-Azam. In the following years the Lahore Resolution was referred to as the sole document formulating Indian Muslims unanimous national demands. The points which were left ambiguous in the Resolution were later clarified in a resolution adopted by the Muslim Representatives Convention held at Delhi in 1946.

IMPORTANCE OF THE LAHORE RESOLUTION

Adoption of the Lahore Resolution was, undoubtedly, a significant landmark in the history of the Muslim India. Following reasons signify its importance:

1. Determination Focused

Through this Resolution the Muslims of India set their national objectives and expressed their unflinching determination to make all out Pions for the achievement of these objectives.

2. Expression of Confidence on Muslim League Leadership

Representatives of the Muslims from all over India attended the Lahore session. Events in the following years proved that Muslims had reposed confidence in the Muslims League. Pakistan was taken up as the core issue by the Muslim League in the election manifesto it gave for the 1945-46 elections. The Muslims rallied round the NMI. League in great numbers and the same parry which had failed to attract people In the 1937 elections, now emerged as the sole representative of the Muslim nation all over India.

3. Emergence of Pakistan

The Lahore Resolution gave a direction to the political struggle of the Muslims and within a short span of seven years' time the Muslims were able to achieve their cherished goal; Pakistan.

Hindu Reaction after the Approval of the Pakistan Resolution

Hindu Journalists

Immediately after the passing of the resolution, the Hindu press openly rejected it. The Hindu journalists called it “the division of the mother cow”. They rejected Muslim’s demands and ridiculed the resolution. They called it impractical and termed it as the fancy of some sick mind.

Hindu Political leaders

Hindu political leaders especially Gandhiji and Pandit Jawarhar Lal Nehru criticized the resolution a lot. They turned it down in harsh words.

The Name of the Resolution

Muslim League named this resolution as Lahore Resolution. But the Hindu press and Hindu leaders ironically termed it as the Pakistan Resolution. Ironically enough, this name became more popular than the original one. The Muslim leaders adopted the new term. It was later on called Pakistan Resolution in all quarters.

The Reaction of the Muslims

Some sects of the Muslim were reluctant to accept promote the demand for partition. But on the whole, this resolution was very popular in the Muslim circle.

British Press

British press paid no heed to the Pakistan Resolution.

Conclusion

The Hindus were confident that Pakistan would not be created but the determination and struggle of the Muslims retorted their false confidence. Pakistan dawned on the horizon of the globe only seven years after the Pakistan Resolution.

Q13. What was the Cabinet Mission Plan? How did the Congress and the Muslim League react to it?

Ans: Background

In fulfilment of the promise made during 1946-46 elections, the British Government sent three senior members of the British Cabinet, in March 1946, as a last attempt to preserve unity of the Indian federation. The delegation flew from London and arrived in Delhi on March 24, 1946.

Members of Cabinet Mission Plan:

These members were:

- i. Lord Pethic Lawrence
- ii. Sir Stafford Cripps
- iii. A. V. Alexander

Purpose of the Cabinet Mission:

The Mission was entrusted with the difficult task of reconciliation between the Congress and the Muslim League. Members of the mission discussed matters with the high-ranking Congress and Muslim League leaders including the Quaid-e-Azam.

Representing the Congress Mania. Abdul-K.am Azad and Gandhiji took a plea for the preservation of the Indian Union and introduction of federal form of government. The Quaid-e-Azam tried to impress upon the members that Pakistan was the only possible solution of the Indian problem.

Failure of Dialogue with Indian Leadership

Difference of opinion between the two major polid.1 parties was substantial and sharp. The Mission tried to make an effort to bring about the parties to a sharp. The Mission tried to make an effort to bring about the parties to a conciliatory formula acceptable for both. Leaders of the two major parties were invited at 9.10 from May 5, to 12, 1946 to discuss matters. Seven sessions were held but no result could be achieved.

Main Provisions of the Cabinet Mission Plan

The main provisions for the cabinet mission plan were as follows:

- India would be a federation
- The affairs to be dealt with by the federal government.
- Three groups of provinces.
- A province can opt-out of the group
- A constituent assembly
- Establishment of the Interim government

India would be a Federation or a Union

India would be a Federation or a Union consisting of British provinces and the India Princely States.

The Affairs to be dealt with by the Federal Government

The Federal government would deal with defence, foreign affairs and communications. The units of the federation will look after all other subjects.

Three groups of provinces

There would be three groups of the provinces

|                |                                                                                                                               |
|----------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Group A | Madras, Bombay, U.P., Bihar, Central Province and Orissa.                                                                     |
| Group B | Punjab, Sindh, North-West Frontier Province and the British Balochistan (this Group was to constitute Muslim Majority areas.) |
| Group C | Bengal and Assam                                                                                                              |

The province can opt-out of the Group

These groups would draft their constitutions in consultation with different provinces included in each group. A province could opt out of the group by a majority decision of its legislature.

A Constituent Assembly

A constituent assembly consisting of 389 members – 292 from provinces, 4 from the territories governed by Chief Commissioners and 93 from the Indian Princely States – would draft the Constitution of India.

Establishment of the Interim government

Interim Government at the Centre consisting of representatives of all communities would be installed based on parity between the representatives of the Hindus and Muslims.

Reaction of political parties:

The Reaction of the Muslim League

The league announced its willingness to participate in the Constitution-making Body. It, however, reiterated that its ultimate objective was Pakistan and that it would employ every means in its power, and consider no sacrifice too great to achieve its goal. The League also conveyed to the Viceroy its willingness to participate in the proposed 'Interim government'.

The reaction of the Congress

The Congress notified its acceptance of the Cabinet Mission's plan with a few reservations. It stated that it would join the Constituent Assembly to frame the Constitution of a free, united and democratic India. But it refused participation in the Interim government for the reason that it could not give up its national character or accept an artificial parity with the Muslim League in the formation of a provisional government.

The Reaction of the Sikhs

The Sikhs found the proposals unacceptable on the ground that the inclusion of the Sikh community in the North-Western Muslim block (Group 'b') would leave the Sikhs at the mercy of the Muslims and imperil the Sikh religion and culture. The All India Scheduled Castes imperil the Sikh religion and culture. The All India Scheduled Castes Federation considered the proposals as absolutely illusory and unworthy of serious consideration because seats have not been reserved for the Scheduled castes in the Legislatures. And also, because only one seat was offered to them in the Interim government.

Q15. Give a background account of the 3rd June Plan? Also, give its salient features?

Ans: Background

With the conclusion of WW II, the British wanted to leave India as soon as possible. They wanted to transfer powers to locals in a peaceful manner but the differences between two major political parties, the Muslim League and Congress, made it difficult.

After failing in all their attempts to create a reconciliation with regard to a united India, the British announced a plan on 3rd June 1947 to partition India into two states.

Today we know this announcement as the 3rd June Plan, 1947.

Announcement of Clement Attlee

The British Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced in the Parliament on 20th February 1947 that India would be given Independence by June 1948. He said:

1. India shall be given independence by June 1948.
2. If the Constituent Assembly fails to frame constitution within the stipulated time limit, the British government shall decide if the powers are to be transferred to a central government or certain provincial governments.
3. Mountbatten was appointed viceroy; he was to replace Wavell.

Lord Mountbatten as New Viceroy

Lord Wavell was replaced by Lord Mountbatten and was given a task to make a peaceful transfer of power from the British to the Indian Hands. Mountbatten reached India in the last week of March 1946.

Meetings with Political Leaders

After his arrival Mountbatten met with Indian leaders and proposed a plan. He discussed matters with the Indian leaders and was convinced that it was not possible to keep India united for a longer period of time. The Muslim League and the Congress both gave their approval to that plan.

Approval of British Government

After getting approval from Indian leaders Mountbatten flew to England to get approval of British Government, where it is readily approved.

Salient Features of Plan

The Partition Plan was announced on 3rd June 1947. Mountbatten also announced that the British will transfer the power to the newly created states, Pakistan and India on 15th August 1947.

1. Formation of Constitution

The British Government shall not impose its own constitution on India. The Indian Constituent Assembly shall frame a Constitution under which the government of the Indian Union shall be run. This Constitution, however, shall not be mandatory for the uni. unwilling to adopt it These units shall be allowed to form constituent assemblies to frame constitutions of their own choice.

2. Formation of Constitution

The Provincial Assemblies shall be entitled to decide which of the two Constituent Assemblies their respective provinces shall join. The Plan stipulated different formulae for the provinces of the Punjab, Bengal the NWIT, Baluchistan and for district of Sylhet in East Bengal.

3. The Decision for Princely States

The Princely States were also offered an option to join either of the two states. keeping in view their geographical position and "other conditions", or to remain independent by making treaty arrangement. with either of the two successor states.

Reaction of Political Parties

Both the Muslim League and the Congress announced their acceptance for the plan by the mid of June.

Governors of New states

The Indian decided Mountbatten as their first Governor General.

The Quaid-e-Azam decided to keep the office of Governor General for himself.

This decision announced Mountbatten it resulted serious issues for Pakistan in early years.

Decision of Provinces

1. Punjab and Bengal: Provincial Assemblies of these provinces voted for the partition.
2. Sindh: Provincial Assembly decided to join Pakistan.
3. Baluchistan: A Shahi Jirga in Baluchistan decided to join Pakistan.
4. NWFP: People decided to join Pakistan in a referendum held in NWFP from 6th to 17th of July.
5. District Sylhet: People decided to join Pakistan in a referendum.

The Independence Act 1947

In order to give effect to the Plan of June 3, the British Parliament on July 18, 1947, passed an Act known as the Indian Independence Act, 1947.

The main features of this Act are as follow:

1. Indian subcontinent would be divided into two independent states of India and Pakistan on 15 August 1948. Both states would have dominion status.
2. Government of India Act 1935 would be the provisional constitution of both states until they make their own constitutions.
3. All treaties and agreements between the British and princely states would end on 15 August 1947. The rulers of the princely states would have the right to join either Pakistan or India or remain independent.

Boundary Commission

Mountbatten appointed a Boundary Commission headed by Cyril Radcliffe for demarcation of boundaries in the Punjab and Bengal.

The Commission submitted its report to Viceroy on 10th August and was announced on 17th August 1947 three days after partition.

Lord Mountbatten made several changes in the actual plan to please the Congress and deprived Pakistan of certain Muslim areas in Punjab and Bengal.

Transfer of Power

Lord Mountbatten flew to Karachi to transfer power to the newly created state of Pakistan on August 14, 1947.

Quaid-e-Azam became the first Governor General of Pakistan and Liaquat Ali Khan became the first Prime Minister.

Territory of Pakistan was divided into two parts, East and West Pakistan.

Additional Questions and MCQs

1. When and Why Bengal was partitioned?

Ans. Partition of Bengal:

- In the year 1905 Lord Curzon partitioned Bengal into two parts i.e. East Bengal and West Bengal.
- This step was taken due to administrative reasons.
- Since this partition benefited the Muslims, the Hindus and the Indian National Congress opposed it forcefully.
- The Muslims started to feel that they should have a political platform of their own to voice their aspirations and take their demands up with the government.

2. When and on whose advice Punjab Muslim Student Federation adopted the demand for separate homeland?

Ans. Demand of Punjab Muslim Student Federation:

- The Punjab Muslims Students Federation adopted the demand of a separate Muslim homeland as its objective in 1937 and made it a part of its constitution.
- This was done on Allama Iqbal advice

3. When and where All India Muslim League was established? Ans. Foundation of All India Muslim League:

- A session of All India Muhammadan Educational Conference was held under the chairmanship of Nawab Viqar ul Mulk in December 1906 at Dacca.
- Resolution for the establishment of All India Muslim League was moved in the meeting by Nawab Salim Ullah Khan
- It was seconded by Maulana Zafar Ali Khan, Hakeem Ajmal Khan and Maulana Muhammad Ali Jauhar.
- Sir Agha Khan was made the first president.

4. What was the reaction of All India Muslim League and Indian National Congress towards Cripps proposals?

Ans. Reaction:

- Major Indian parties, the Muslim league and the congress, rejected the Cripps proposals, obviously for different reasons.
- The congress despised the prospect of India's disintegration, which the formula apparently promised.
- The congress knew that the government was under great distress due to the war engagements and it was a golden opportunity to build pressure on her to quit India.
- The Muslim league rejected the plan, simply because it stood for a federal India and did not grant her demand for Pakistan in clear terms.

5. What was the reaction of All India Muslim League and Indian National Congress towards Cabinet Mission?

Ans. Reaction:

- Gandhiji interrupted the plans as "an appeal and an advice". He said the Constituent Assembly as a sovereign body shall have the power to amend the Plan.
- The Muslim League Council met on June 3, 1946 and after three days discussion decided to approve the Plan.
- The Council resented that the Plan did not clearly provide for the demand for Pakistan but it saw a ray of hope in the "grouping scheme" and confirmed that the party would join the constituent Assembly with the hope that it would be able to achieve its objective through constitutional means.
