

Introduction:

Understanding how parents shape our goals and choices is crucial for our growth and future.

While they teach us what's important, we also have our own dreams and ambitions.

This clash between what parents want for us and what we have chosen for ourselves creates a barrier between family's expectations and personal aspirations, which leads to untapped potential in Pakistan.

Public Opinion:

For understanding its causes and impacts of society, I contacted various figures for this purpose:

1. Keeping in view the strategies for asserting one's aspirations (while keeping in view family's perspectives),
I got the suggestion that individuals can explore professional fields independently and decide what they are interested in. Then, they should engage in discussions with their family to listen to their point of view and ensure that the individual is on the right path.
2. Then for the question about the role of open communication (in resolving conflicts between parental influence and individual aspirations),
I got the point that open communication plays a crucial role in making correct decisions. Parents should encourage their children to communicate openly not only with them but also with the outside world. The individuals cannot rely on just their self-study because they might be missing some information which may lead to incorrect decisions. So, with the help of open communication, points of views can be exchanged between the parents and their children, which results in better decisions.

3. Besides, for the fact that how influential are parents in shaping the aspirations of their children?

He responded that it depends on training of children and their psychology.

The way parents educate their children about the society, the pros and cons of the professional fields, the obstacles and hurdles faced, in different paths, their thinking changes according to it, so they can better understand which profession is more suitable for them.

Own Opinion:

- In my opinion, the lack of education among people is one of the main causes of this social issue. Either the parents or the youth lack some information which leads to considering the wrong path.
- Another factor is the communication gap between parents and their children. When the parents and their children are unaware of each other's point of views about the career suitable for them, they may fail to choose the most suitable career for the individual.

Way Forward:

- The solution to this problem can only be started with the upbringing of a child in his home. The education and resources provided by the parents prepare a person to choose the right path in the future.
- The more amount of mutual understanding between the parents and children there is, the more easier it will be to take decisions for choosing a career and in certain other matters.