QUESTION 3

"Review of Pursuit of Happiness"

The movie Pursuit of Happiness majorly revolves around 'Chris Garner', a struggling Bone Density Scanner investor and a single parent, who faces financial adversity. In response, becomes a stock broker, intern turned employee to change his life.

Mission of Protagonist:

Struggling with financial adversity and even forced to sleep at a community shelter with his son, Chris Garner kept true to the mission of his life. Which was to provide a better living to his son.

- Corporates also keep their mission as number one priority while making strategic policies.

Strategic Planning (OR Cognitive Planning)

Chris Garner's Bone Density Machine business was at an all time low, which forced him to consider an unpaid internship at a Stock brokerage.

He had to strategically change his field. ~~by keeping~~ ~~facts~~ in order to stay true to his mission.

- Companies also have to ^{take} strategic alternatives while entering new markets.

Prioritization / Management:

Being a single parent, internee at Stock Brokerage, homeless, Garner had to prioritize his work be it taking care of his child, finding a place to stay, Preparing for his test, internship, etc.

(Investing time at important stuff)

- Corporates eg need to invest at right places they may consider BCG model for instance.

Personal Branding / Networking

Garner exhibits his personality to persevere through hard obstacles.

For instance he also solved his boss's rubic's cube which boss thought to be impossible.

- Corporates fight for Uniqueness to get to brand loyalty.

Classical Management

The firm while recruitment considered results of their interns. They were unaware of the mental state, financial background of their employees.

Q/Part No.

- This is in accordance to classical management theory

Minimal Micromanagement:

It is seen that internees are dwelled into Stock Brokerage works, handling clients, etc without any major assistance.

- Corporates can do this to improve the ability of their employees.

Transformational Leadership:

Gamer was unable to provide his son shelter for some time, but he tried to be an example.

In one scene he said.

"Don't ever let anybody tell you that you can't do something... Not even me."

- He motivated his child, and that's what Corporates can do. Provide a mission to their employees and motivate them through during challenging circumstances.

QUESTION #2

'SWOT Analysis Chat GPT/OPEN AI'

Chat Gpt is a famous service of OPEN AI, which leads in the AI research market.

Strengths

- The biggest advantage of OPEN AI is its reputation (Brand Value) which has been built over the years. Given that it came into the market at an early AI age.

- The important thing to note of OPEN AI is its location. It operates in Silicon Valley, the hub of innovation.

- It enjoys a distinctive competitiveness as it provides value to people from all fields of life (coders, IT, teachers, students, common man). Most AI tools are for a specialized class of society.

- Given its company size it has constant new innovations that help them to compete with competitors. Most recently

Weaknesses Ghibli Art creation on Chatptp.

Weaknesses:

- Although GPT / OPEN AI enjoy a big chunk of market share, it has to deal with unfathomable amounts of data, which may cause disruptions in Servers.

This may allow other chatbots that specialize in a single topic to take over, as they have less data to deal with and are fast.

- Although their product is at maturity. But it may be at risk of decline if further innovative stuff is not done. Or attention to other AI products is not placed.

~~Opportunity~~ • There are claims of copy right theft upon OPEN AI. Which if proved correct may lead to sanctions and legal punishments.

Company should look into the matter urgently and prove innocence.

Opportunities:

- OPEN AI can build "contracts" with schools to make GPT learning tool.

This will help them to create a monopoly at workplaces where only their AI will be used.

- OPEN AI can use the concept of related diversification to expand their business and use synergies.

Threats:

- OPEN AI has a "competitive threat" most notably from "Deep seek" which was built using less resources.

GPT must provide a distinct value to neutralize the threat.

- The recent dealine in US stock market / NVIDIA shares may impact OPEN AI's production cost or material availability.

QUESTION #1

* PORTER'S 5 PROCESS - COFFEE CHAIN

Industry rivalry:

The coffee ^{chain} shop would face a competitive battle with other coffee chains. Most notably 'Nescafe' if we take Pakistan for example.

Solutions:

* Given the boycott situation (if our company/coffee chain is non-Israeli), the coffee chain can call itself locally made. This distinct/unique attribute will ~~attract~~ ^{diverge} the customers and purchase from our coffee chain. Can be done by aggressive marketing.

* If the chain can afford it, they can drop little prices (price war) having the same quality. This will catch an eye of the customers.

* We can take innovative measure as in introducing new coffee flavours and foods involving coffee.

Threat of New Entrants:

• The coffee chain may face a threat of new entrants.

Given the fact that we are 'well known global' coffee chain this will keep threat of new entrants at lower level.

Solutions:

• But as a measure we should take innovative actions, build a loyal customer base, decrease prices, provide quality to never let the threat of new entrants impact our market share.

Bargaining Power of Suppliers

• Given that coffee is not easily available and is a unique/distinct raw good we would face challenges in negotiating terms with suppliers.

Solution: we look to diversify our our suppliers network.

This will allow us to have better alternative from a pool of contracts.

Suppliers would know our range of network and would look to strike a deal favourable to both parties.

Bargaining Power of Customers:

- If our customers have variety of coffee chains available, they may be harder to retain.
- When we enjoy a good chunk of market share, our customers in exchange of their loyalty may demand a price cut.

Solutions:

It is necessary to have enough sales that we are able to drop prices / give customer centric deals and offers.

Threat of Substitutes:

- It presents a threat that our customers can leave our product for an alternate one.

Solution:

In order to neutralize this threat the company must have a brand value and distinctive competitiveness which makes customers get our products for the value we provide.

We can also keep our prices affordable to achieve this feat.
