DIFFERENCE BETWEEN SUNNAH & HADITH

Sunnah	Hadith
“Sunnah” meaning his method way and path and	Scholars often do not use the term “hadith”
Sunnah is always an act of the prophet, alaihissalaam,	a hadith is a report of his statement, act, silent approval or an incident that took place in his life.
Sunnah is clear in what it stands for	where as the context of a hadith had to be understood (and therefore interpreted) by all the narrators involved in the chain of transmission
Sunnah has come down to us from generation to generation	hadith has been reported, in most cases, by one individual to another
Sunnah-Practice & customs of the prophet	Hadith -Sayings of the prophet
It is an explanation of sharia	Hadith-Second source of shariah
Sunnah-Not preserved in hadith form but when practically done	Hadith-Preserved in a book form e.g. six authentic sunni hadith books
It is what was done by his companios and he approved it	Hadith-Approved deeds of the companions by the prophet[p.b.u.h]
Sunnah-Explains the practice of the prophet(saw)	Hadith-Explains some verses of the Quran

Sunnah	Hadith
It is purely related to practical aspects of Islam	Can be authentic due to broken chain
Customs , methods and way of prophet Muhammad(P.B.UH)	News and information
Religious and spiritual color	Every hadith is piece of information but every information is not hadith
Consensus of Ummah established	It is not

STAGES OF RECORDING THE HADITH

FOUR METHODS

Verbal

Written (dictation to scribes)

Practical demonstration

Discussion

Verbal

- first method is concerned, the Prophet used to repeat important things three times and then listen to what the Companions had learned from him.

Written (dictation to scribes)

- The second method includes all the letters of the Prophet to kings inviting them to Islam, and to Muslim governors detailing the rules of zakat and other legal matters.

Practical demonstration

- the Prophet taught his Companions how to perform ablution, prayer, fasting, pilgrimage, and so on

Discussion

- Whenever Companions faced any problem , they came and discussed with the holy prophet Muhammad

COMPILATION OF HADITH

FOUR STAGES

1. The first stage relates to the period of the Prophet till 10 A.H.

2. The second stage is approximately from 11 A.H. to 100 A.H. This is the period of Sahaba (the companions of the Prophet).

3. The third stage is from about 101 to nearly 200 A.H. This is the period of the Tabiun (the disciples of the companions of the Prophet).

4. The fourth stage is roughly from 200 A.H. to 300 A.H. This is the period of Taba Tabiun (the disciples of the disciples).

COMPILATION DURING THE PERIOD OF THE PROPHET

1. Some companions had, however, prepared written collections of traditions for their own personal use. Those companions, in particular, who had weaker memories used to write them down for memorizing and preservation. These were also dictated to their disciples.
2. Then there were those companions who had administrative offices arranged for written copies of traditions, so that they might carry out their duties in the true spirit of Islam. For instance, while appointing Amr ibn Hazm as the governor of Yaman, the Prophet himself gave him a letter containing the times of prayer, methods of prayer, details of ablution, booty, taxation, zakat, etc.
3. Abdullah ibn Amr ibn al-As, a young Makkan, also used to write down all that he heard from the Prophet. He had even asked the Prophet if he could make notes of all that he said. The Prophet replied in the affirmative. Abdullah called this compilation Sahifah Sadiqa (The Book of the Truth). It was later incorporated into the larger collection of Imam Ahmad ibn Hambal.
4. Anas, a young Madinan, was the Prophet's personal attendant. Since Anas remained with the Prophet day and night, he had greater opportunities than the other companions to listen to his words. Anas had written down the tradition on scrolls. He used to unroll these documents and say: "These are the sayings of the Prophet, which I have noted and then also read out to him to have any mistakes corrected."
5. Ali ibn Abi Talib was one of the scribes of the Prophet. The Prophet once dictated to him and he wrote on a large piece of parchment on both sides. He also had a sahifa (pamphlet) from the Prophet which was on zakat (the poor due) and taxes.

Besides these there were some other documents dictated by the Prophet himself — official letters, missionary letters, treaties of peace and alliance addressed to different tribes— all these were later incorporated into larger collections of Hadith.

COMPILATION DURING THE PERIOD OF THE COMPANIONS

1. Caliph Umar bin Abdul Aziz wrote to the governor of Madina

2. Saaheefa Saadiqaa

This has been attributed to Abdullaah Ibn Amr al-Aas (d.63H at the age of 77)

3.Saaheefa Saheehaa

This is attributed to Humaam Ibn Munabbah (rahimahullaah)

4.Saaheefa Basheer Ibn Naheek

He was the student of Abu Hurairah

5.Musnad Abu Hurairah (radi-Allaahu ‘anhu)

It was written during the time of the Companions

6.The Final Sermon of the Messenger of Allaah

THE AGE OF TABIUN FROM 101 TO NEARLY 200 A.H.

In the beginning of the second Hijri century, during the reign of `Umar ibn `Abdul-`Aziz (AH 97-101) the texts of Hadith were committed to writing.

1. Imam Malik (d. AH 179/795 CE) was the first to undertake the comprehensive and systematic compilation of Hadith. His work is known as Al-Muwatta' (The Trodden Path).

2. Jaami Sufyaan ath-Thawree (d.161H)

3. Jaami Abdullaah Ibn al-Mubaarak (d.181H)

4. Jaami Imaam al-Awzaa'ee (d.157H)

5. Jaami Ibn Juraij (d.150H)

6. Kitaab al-Akhraj of Qaadhi Abu Yoosuf (d.182H)

7. Kitaab al-Athaar of Imaam Muhammad (d.189H)

THE THIRD AGE OF TABA TABIUN (FOLLOWERS OF THE SUCCESSORS)

1. Muhammad b. Ismail al Bukhari, (194 A.H.-256 A.H.): Sahih. This work is next to the Quran in authenticity.
2. Muslim bin Qushairi (204 A.H.-261 A.H.): Sahih. This is the next most important work on Hadith.
3. Ibn Majah (202 A.H.-275 A.H.): Sunan
4. Abu Isa al Tirmizi (209 A.H.-279 A.H.): Jame
5. Abu Abdur Rahman an Nasai (214 A.H.-303 A.H.): Sunan
6. Abu Da'ud (202 A.H.-275 A.H.): Sunan
